How to play

- Each stroke goes in a straight line, one of eight directions, a whole number of spaces.
- The die sets the distance. Add a space from the fairway, take one away from sand.
- A one-space putt is always available, whatever the die says.
- The ball flies over water but cannot land in it, and only clears trees when the stroke starts on the fairway.
- You hole out by stopping on the cup, or by rolling one space past it. Two spaces past is a miss.
- Par is six on every hole, so a clean round is 108.

The card

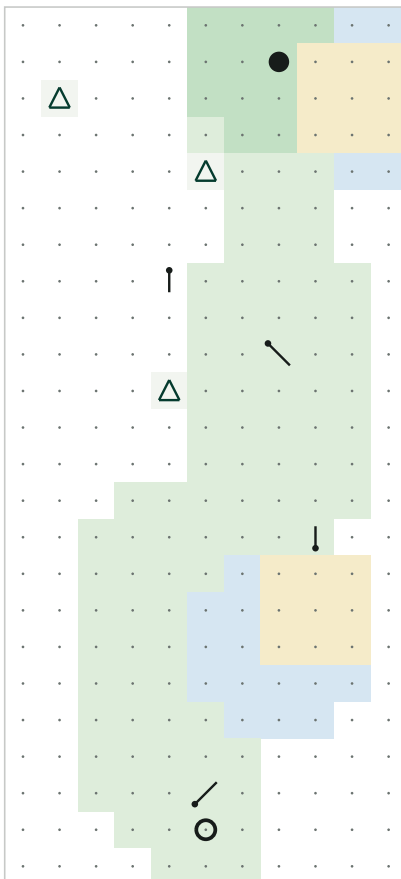

-  Fairway, one space further on every hit
-  Rough, no help and no penalty
-  Sand trap, one space shorter
-  Water, fly over it but never land in it
-  Trees, only clear them when hitting from the fairway
-  Slope, land on the arrow and roll one more space
